STAGE LINES.

COLUMBIA RIVER & PUGET SOUND MAIL LINE.

GEORGE COGGAN, Proprietor.

THE ONLY REGULAR LINE RUNNING BY ARrangement, and in connection with the PUGET SOUND STEAM NAVIGATION CO., N. P. R. R. CO. and O. S. N. CO., between Sound points, Victoria and Portland.

THIS IS THE ONLY STAGE LINE selling THROUGH tickets over these several lines, and carrying passengers on their tickets.

Passengers, by purchasing THROUGH TICKETS save money and trouble, and secure the best conveyances, by the only line by which close connections connections can be relied on. The small reduction made by so-called opposition stage lines cannot benefit THROUGH PASSENGERS, as the local fare over the N. P. R. R. and other lines exceed the reduction made by the opposition.

Through tickets can be obtained in Portland at O. S. N. Co's office; Olympia, at COGGANS' STAGE office, and on board the P. S. S. N. Co's steamers.

OUR AGENTS on trains will take charge of baggage and freight for Stages, in waiting at Tenino.

Buggies, Carriages and other private conveyances can be secured by telegraphing to the Agent at the Stage office at Olympia. N. PIERCE, Agent.

THE TERRITORIES.

Bellingham Bay stone will be used for the Washington Territory Penitentiary.

Wm. Wright, of Olympia, has received an appointment on the Skokomish Indian Reservation.

The Prince Alfred on her last trip from San Francisco to the Sound had 112 passengers and 260 tons of freight.

The Puget Sound telegraph line is a complete success, and of great importance to the different localities in which its offices are located.

Twenty six thousand feet of pump logs were received at Olympia last Wednesday, from Freeport, for the Tumwater Water Company.

The frosts of last week nipped many young plants and vegetables on the Sound, and reduced the fruit prospect some, but not seriously.

The British ship Col. Adams, 1600 tons, has arrived in the Sound from Callao, after a passage of 50 days. She will load lumber at Port Blakely, and return.

The Board of Managers of the Territorial Fair offers 350 premiums to the value of about $4,000 at their next annual exhibition which will take place September 29th.

Seventy-five plants of the Rhododendron Maximum, a native flowering shrub of Washington Territory were recently shipped to San Francisco, to be set out for ornament.

The Puget Sound Courier says: "It seems to be no longer a matter of doubt that an additional contract for the construction of sixty miles of railroad, or in all one hundred miles northward from Tenino. This will carry the road down near or across the Snohomish river, some thirty miles north of Seattle. It is also reported that orders have been issued for cargoes of railroad iron to be shipped direct to the Sound. We hope all these reports may prove true, as thereby we may have a chance of relief from the present dull times."

The Olympia Tribune of the 14th says: "A party of fourteen men, ship carpenters all, arrived at Port Madison yesterday from San Francisco, for the purpose of building there a steamer. The vessel to be built will be a propeller for the Coos Bay Coal Company. She will be a twin sister of the Eastport, built for the same company at San Francisco last winter. The Eastport is of Puget Sound material, but, we presume, from this action, must have cost more than the same vessel would if built at our mill ports on the Sound. Here, too, the carpenter has a choice of material and can have any special order filled at the mill the same day, and the Sound vessel should be the better as well as cheaper one. The Eastport is 482 tons measurement, and cost, we think, $80,000. A large force, probably twenty-five or thirty men, will be employed on the Port Madison vessel, and she will be completed before the close of summer."

Speakers of the French Assembly.

A correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette furnishes some enterprising gossip about the different Speakers of the French Chamber. He assumes that of the twenty-two gentlemen who have held the Speakership since 1789, three only have left their mark—M. Boissy d'Anglas, M. Dupin, and the Duke de Morny. M. Boissy d'Anglas "was a feeble man, who wore blue-striped stockings, and carried an unloaded pistol in his pocket. He was President of the Convention; and when the debates grew stormy—which happened every day—he would scream distractedly, 'What am I to do? I entreat you to respect your President. Pray consider, citizens, that moderation is the charm of language.' One single act of firmness has immortalized him. The Assembly having been invaded by a mob, the representative Ferand was killed, and his bleeding head, stuck on a pike, was thrust under the President's face. Boissy d'Anglas naively avowed afterward that had he been aware that the door behind his chair was ajar, he should have bolted through it; but this door was generally locked, so, fancying escape was impossible, he rose and uncovered himself before the head. The act was so gravely and decorously performed that it overawed the populace; and Boissy d'Anglas, treated from that day forth with a respect to which he was unaccustomed, waxed frequently bold and even personal. One day, seeing Barrere scale the tribunal in front of the old and infirm representative Durrieu, whose turn it was to speak, he shouted to him to stand down. 'And what if I don't?' yelled Barrere. 'You have given so few proofs of personal courage in the course of your career that such a refusal would surprise me,' answered Boissy d'Anglas coolly; and Barrere, who was no lion, slunk away amid general laughter."

Lucien Bonaparte occupied the chair at the time of the first Napoleon's coup d'etat when the Assembly was expelled by bayonets. "Not feeling sure at first whether the coup d'etat would succeed, he buried his face in his hands and appeared to be weeping over the outrage offered to the laws; but as soon as the bayonets began to get the best of it, he stood up and cried, 'Vive Bonaparte!' adding, with great presence of mind, 'I shed tears of joy to think that our vain debates are now at an end.'"

M. Dupin, the second of the three prominent Speakers, came in with the Revolution of 1830. He was the first Speaker who used a bell. He "wore a pair of clumped high-lows, delight of the comic papers, and he would stamp these with great determination on the floor when the appeals of his bell proved unavailing.

"President Dupin was famous for many qualities. He was impartial, a keen lawyer, an eloquent debater, and a ready wit. He treated the House like a parcel of school boys, and plied his tongue like a rattan about their heads; but he made no difference between one side of the Assembly and the other. His greatest friend was Berryer, from whom he differed totally in politics, but whose vigorous tilts against some of the Ministers whom he, (Dupin) disliked, pleased him immensely. One day Berryer went a little too far in his attacks on a member of the Government, and Dupin felt compelled to sing out, 'M. Berryer, if you go on in that style, I shall be obliged to call you to order;' but, leaning over, he whispered in the speaker's ear, 'Pitch into him' ('Tape dessus'.) On another occasion a M. Abraham, of the colonial members and a mulatto, had ascended the tribune with a formidable written speech, which immediately thinned the House. The remaining members showing frequent signs of impatience, Dupin stooped and whispered, 'Can't you skip?' but this doing little good, Dupin returned to the charge again, saying, 'Come, Abraham, be true to your name, and make one more sacrifice.' M. Dupin was so much respected that in 1849 he was re-elected to preside over the National Assembly, which was violently dissolved in 1851. His words at the coup d'etat were characteristic: 'I don't advise any of you to oppose force,' he said to the members who clustered around him for advice; and the members went their way, convinced once more that their President was the soul of prudence."

M. Grevy, the late Speaker was a man of marked courtesy, and would probably have maintained a high reputation for sound judgment, but for his sudden resignation under circumstances of great provocation.

M. Louis Buffet, the new President, is described as a "stern sort of man, who has made himself a name rather by the austerity of his gait and the indomitable obstinacy of his temper, than by a display of the blander qualities which usually recommend a President."

LATEST FROM THE FRONT!

CAPT. JACK AT BAY.

The Troops Make an Attack.

Attitude of Indians in Northern California.

CAMP SOUTH TULE LAKE, Lava Beds, May 13.—The Modocs are now entrenched in a crater, or mass of lava, a little to the southeast of this camp, and distant 15 to 18 miles. Capt. Hasbrouck is camped within watching distance of the enemy, with a force of 219 men, where he awaits Col. Mason, who yesterday morning started from Jack's old stronghold, with a force of 170 men, and took a southeasterly course. It is intended that the two commands shall unite under Col. Mason and hold the Indians at bay until the mortars are forwarded, and a scout made around the southern boundary of the beds by way of the Tickner road.

At last accounts the Indians were fortifying their present position with the evident intention of giving battle at the first opportunity.

11 P. M.—It now appears that Col. Mason signalled his knowledge of the whereabouts of the Indians this afternoon, by way of Jack's old stronghold, and that both himself and Hasbrouck were ordered to obtain favorable positions during the night and make an attack upon the enemy at 3 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The Fight Commenced.

LAVA BEDS, May 14—7 A. M.—One of the sentinels report hearing firing in an easterly direction from the camp at an early hour this morning. It is inferred from this that Col. Mason has begun his work.

YREKA, May 16.—J. W. Doten arrived here to-day from Hot Spring Valley via Bargotville, having left the former place on Tuesday last.

The Pitt River Indians, to the number of about 300 warriors, had gathered together, and were in council, having been called there by Old Dick, head chief. Dick is peaceably inclined, and friendly toward the whites. Settlers there have every confidence in him. He was anxious that the Pitt River's should all move to the east side of Pitt River, so that they would not be blamed for depredations committed north or west of them. He told the whites he did not know what the result of the council would be, but some of the Indians, headed by Old Shavehead, wanted to fight. They talked of putting him, Old Dick, down, and making some one else chief. Should they do so, the settlers might know trouble was intended. Old Shavehead came there some time ago and went off. Some think he has been up to the lava beds holding a conference with Capt. Jack. Mr. Doten says sentries are not apprehensive of any serious trouble, but the collecting together of such a band at this time, looks suspicious.

OREGON.

A sash and door factory is being built at Lafayette.

Drunken Indians are becoming too common to be agreeable at Oregon City.

Merchants of the Dalles run their establishments on cash principles, and find it pleasant.

Yamhill farmers assemble at Lafayette to-day for the purpose of perfecting the Yamhill County League.

John Meldrum, Sr., has been chosen Street Commissioner of Oregon City, and John Kelly night watchman.

All Albany ran out of Church last Sunday at an alarm of fire, but no great damage was done except the soiling of polished boots.

The Society of Natural History at Salem will probably purchase the cabinet of [illegible], fossils, etc., collected by Rev. P. S. Knight.

The "Long Hairs" of Monmouth got away with the Albany "Short Hairs" in superb style last week, in their little game of base ball.

A letter from Baker City says: There is considerable scare here but no one hurt yet. Our people are organized for defense and want arms.

The State Capitol Commissioners will commence active work next Monday morning excavating for the foundation, using convict work for that purpose.

The Benton county farmers are building a warehouse at Spring Hill, on the river, three miles below Albany. It will have a storage capacity of about 14,000 bushels.

An individual who was somewhat inebriated went to sleep while crossing the river in the Salem ferryboat one day last week, and when he awoke he owed the company $27 90 for ferriage.

Dayton has three dry goods and grocery stores, two blacksmith shops, one saw mill, one flouring mill, one sash factory, one livery stable, one saloon, one frame and picture store, one shoe shop, two wagon shops.

A change of venue has been taken from Polk county to Marion in the case of the State vs. A. H. Whitley. This is one of the cases growing out of the feud heretofore mentioned as the result of much bad blood about Dallas.

Quite a destructive fire occurred at Auburn, Baker county, on the morning of the 9th. Four buildings occupied by Chinese were consumed, causing a loss, goods included, of about $1,500. The fire resulted from a defective flue.

After Brown, of the Democrat, had seen the eclipse, he "glided silently and shiveringly off to his diminutive couch, feeling as puffed up and big as the little boys who are the first to get a glimpse of the old elephant at a newly arrived menagerie."

A son of Mr. Drury Hodges, of Soap Creek, Benton county, while "engineering" a gang plow in his fathers's field, accidentally caught his left leg in the machinery of the plow and broke both bones just above the ankle. Dr. J. Lindsey Hill was summoned.

Martin Luper, A. F. Cherry, N. Price, Wm. Peters and M. Payne, of Linn county, have formed a corporation at Albany to be known as the Farmers' and Mechanics' Manufacturing Company. The business in which the corporation propose to engage is the manufacturing, building, making and repairing of all kinds of agricultural, horticultural and mechanical implements and machinery, and mill and steam machinery, wagons and carriages, and to sell and dispose of the same.

Our Baker City correspondent says in a letter dated the 12th: "Bishop Morris, assisted by Rev. Mr. Welles, of Walla Walla, held divine service at the Court House to-day. The Bishop had a large attendance, and is talking of building and establishing a Church in our city, providing the building lots and necessary pecuniary assistance can be obtained. We mean to to help him. We stand much in need of pure and undefiled religion here, and should welcome any institution that would have a tendency to elevate our morals."

The Mercury says: "Owing to the delay of the several local agents of the Board of Commissioners of the School Lands, and the management of the common school fund, the Hon. Board have not been enabled, as required by law, to make an order for the yearly interest distribution until the present week. The number of school children in the State, compiled according to the County School Superintendents' reports, is 36,513. The amount of coin interest accounted for, subject to distribution, is $22,953 51; amount of currency, ditto, $9,466 24. The coin rate of distribution is about 63 89 cents per capita, and the currency rate about 25.00 25 cents per capita. The amount due Marion county for 4,313 children is $2,755 65 coin, and $1,117 78 currency."

Guzman Blanco was unanimously re-elected President of the Venezuelan Republic, and inaugurated April 27th.

EASTERN DATES TO MAY 16.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The Pacific Railroad Suits—Statement of the Government's Case.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The bill of equity brought against the Union Pacific Railroad Company by the Government, cites: That Congressional grants to said Company were made upon the trust that the property should be managed for the benefit and security of the United States on account of the Government bond, and the interest which the United States pay on them; that the managers of the Company have not performed that trust, but have distributed a large amount of [illegible] among themselves for their private benefit; that this distribution was accomplished by fraudulent contracts. Government counsel contend that the Courts have power to compel the parties to restore the property, in order that the security of the United States may be unimpaired. The bill proceeds on the ground that the original subscriptions to the road were never actually paid, and that the receipts for payment were the result of fraud and fiction. The suit is therefore to compel those who have subscribed to pay the amounts severally credited to them, and to account for bonds, stock, moneys, and other property which they received as profits, and to which they were not entitled. The Credit Mobilier is not a party to the suit, but as the individual management of the Union Pacific and the Credit Mobilier Company were incidentally in the hands of the same parties who divided the proceeds of their joint scheme, the Government seeks to restore the affairs of the company to the condition contemplated by the laws of Congress [illegible] in the construction of the road, so that not only innocent stockholders be [illegible] and [illegible], but the company strengthened and in order that it may discharge its obligations to the Government by paying into the Treasury five per cent. of the net receipts of the [illegible] a fund with which in connection with the [illegible] withheld by the Government for transportation, to pay interest [illegible] advanced by the United States and ultimately the principal of the fund.

EASTERN STATES.

NEW HAVEN, May 15.—The review by the President and distinguished military officials to-day, was a grand affair. After a long delay the line finally moved at about 2 o'clock and proceeded to the residence of H. The Panic Extends into Russia.

ODESSA, May 16.—The panic has extended to the Bourse here. All business is stopped and discount rises to 9 per cent.

Important to the Jay Family.

VIENNA, May 16.—Edward Pillow was married to-day to the sister of Mr. Jay, U. S. Minister. The ceremony took place at the American embassy, in presence of the German Ambassador and lady, and other distinguished guests.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—Devine's remains has not yet been buried. Coroner Stillman took legal advice and was informed that he had nothing to do with granting a certificate for burial. Thus far, the city physician, Dr. Johnson, who was present at the execution declined to give a certificate of death. McGinn, the undertaker, who has charge of the body, fears the penalty of the law, should he bury it without a permit. The difficulty in getting Devine under ground is about as great as that experienced in getting him under the scaffold. It is hard to see what public good can be subserved by keeping the body out of the tomb any longer.

The city is very quiet; little doing in either civil or criminal courts.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—The Committee appointed by Governor Booth to investigate the charges against Wilkinson, Principal of the State Asylum for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind, met this afternoon and heard testimony. One witness, named Miles, made a long statement. Wilkinson disputed the truth of some of his statements, which enraged Miles, who waited in the courtroom till Wilkinson came out, when he spat in his face and called him an infernal scoundrel. Wilkinson made a show of resentment, but was unarmed, and so hastened away. Judge McKinstry reproved Miles severely for his outrageous conduct.

Countess Pourtales, daughter of Ben. Holliday, died suddenly near Chicago yesterday.

Hon. [illegible]—DEAR SIR:—In accordance with my telegram of the [illegible] instant, I direct my decision upon the [illegible] to commute the sentence of [illegible] to imprisonment for life to you [illegible] Georgia.

I have examined with great care the [illegible] applications made in behalf of Miss [illegible], hoping that I might find [illegible] reason which would justify me in [illegible] to save her life. Under the law, her guilt is fixed by the verdict of the jury, and the reasons offered in her favor do not create even a shadow of a doubt of the correctness of the finding.

The evidence [illegible] that the offense was committed by [illegible] herself with [illegible] atrocity.

The reasons suggested for [illegible] her punishment are, that she had been reared in ignorance, is not sensible of the weight of her [illegible] obligations, and is a [illegible]. The Revival of the Columbia Street Bridge Project

By reference to another column in this paper it will be seen that the project of building a bridge across the Wallamet river, from the foot of Columbia street in this city to Asylum street in East Portland, has been revived under auspices that promise extremely favorably. The gentlemen connected with the enterprise are persons well known and of the best standing in the community, and men who do not indulge in idle talk They mean business

The site of the proposed bridge is the same that has already had the approval of the Secretary of War and of the City Council, and is probably, all things considered, the best that could have been chosen. The plan, we are informed, upon which this structure is to be built is identical so far as the question of piers and material is concerned as that approved, and the carriage-ways and foot-ways are the same except as to width. The main difference, as we are informed, is that the housing and saloons that were included in the old plan have been omitted in this. Otherwise the plans are substantially the same throughout. It is therefore believed there will be no necessity for any further action by the Secretary of War, in the premises, as there is not the slightest departure from his plans in any matter that could affect the question of navigation which is the sole question upon which the Government desires to be informed. The act of Congress of 1870 granting the right to construct this bridge expressed the object of subjecting the plans to the approval of the Secretary of War, to be the securing of the navigation of the stream against obstruction.

We understand this project does not involve the repeal or modification of the franchises granted by the city to C. H. Lewis and others to construct a bridge at the lower part of the city; but simply contemplates the building of a bridge at the old site and upon the old plan, without reference to that plan. The intention is, we understand, to make the bridge and work for the people, and therefore it is the purpose if possible to make a free bridge. The enterprise is meeting with greater encouragement than even its friends anticipated, and great hopes are entertained that it will be a complete success and that within less than a year from this date the structure will have been completed. We can not overstate the advantages of such a bridge to both the cities. We trust our citizens and those on the east side of the river will give liberal encouragement to the scheme, as its benefits will extend both to city and country, and especially to the farmers on the east side.

The Public Debt statement for April shows the amount of money due the United States from the several railways whose bonds are secured by the Government. The amounts due for money actually paid on the interest of bonds, over and above all set offs for transportation furnished to the Government by the companies respectively, are as follows:

Central Pacific	$6,429 935 53
Kansas Pacific	1,076 579 73
Union Pacific	6,441,357 18
Central Branch, U P	523,156 24
Western Pacific	417,431 64
Sioux City & Pacific	435,331 73

In addition to these sums, there is interest due and unpaid, for which the Government is responsible, as follows;

Central Pacific	$517,702 40
Kansas Pacific	126 060 00
Union Pacific	544,730 24
Central Branch, U. P.	34,000 00
Western Pacific	39 411 20
Sioux City & Pacific	31 866 40

Benjamin Reid & Co., nurserymen of Aberdeen, Scotland, have presented our Government, through the Agricultural Department at Washington, with thirty thousand plants of the Scotch fir, or Highland pine tree. They are delivered in New York city, all charges paid, and are intended for gratuitous distribution in the Western States. This is a splendid gift, and the large-hearted donors could have chosen no surer method of perpetuating in the minds of Americans a remembrance of the "bonny braes" of Scotland. Wherever these noble trees shall bud and bloom along the prairies of our West, they will stand for aye a beautiful reminder of the beneficence of the givers.

A leading editorial in the Union City (Tenn.) Herald lays down this astounding proposition: "The earth blessed man and the creeping things for nearly 6,000 years with her vegetable kingdom, and so soon as man found out that yeast was good to go in bread, he had commenced swelling." We doubt if that allegation could be successfully disputed. It can be viewed as a glittering generality; or it can be boldly proclaimed as a culinary axiom. In the latter case, we should be inclined to call for a division of the question, and ask the editor of the Herald to put his bread in evidence.

The Richmond Enquirer states that a number of English gentlemen have procured a statue of Stonewall Jackson, which will shortly be brought to this country. Mr. Foley, one of the most eminent of living English sculptors, is the artist. It is said that "the statue is of bronze, of heroic size, and represents the hero as standing in a favorite attitude of absorbing thought." Hon. Beresford Hope, M. P., and Mr. Gregory, now Governor-General of Ceylon, have interested themselves greatly in this matter.

A Boston correspondent is responsible for the story that a young graduate of Amherst called on Oliver Wendell Holmes recently, and sadly told him that he had made such a miserable failure in his sermon the day before, that he was discouraged. "What was your text?" inquired Doctor H "'Remember Lot's wife'," was the reply "All right my young friend," replied the wit; "Your failure ought to teach you always to let other men's wives alone"! The divinity student "sloped."

We have received the prospectus of The Hawk-Eye, a weekly newspaper to be published at Eugene City. The initial number will appear on the 22d instant. This paper is to be furnished at the very low rate of one dollar per year. It is to be, "independent in all things and neutral in nothing." That certainly sounds like genuine pluck.

What satisfaction is there in living a sober, upright life, when the law pays a premium on drunkenness,—when sobriety is, financially, a losing game? Says an Independence (Iowa) dispatch of May 10th. "Six suits of $5,000 each, and one of $8,000, have been instituted against saloon-keepers here by the wives of dissipated husbands."

In the Sunday Capital of May 4th, Don Piatt nominates Captain Jack for the Presidency. That makes two candidates. The other one is Minister Washburne.

The Excitement about Indians.

We are glad to be able to lay before our readers the letter of S M. Wait, Esq., of Dayton, W. T., in relation to the reports of Indian troubles in the Eastern part of Oregon and the adjoining Territories. Mr. Wait is well known, and the reliability of his statements will never be questioned. Whether he attributes the excitement in some sections of that country to its true cause or not, we can assure our readers from a personal acquaintance with Mr. Wait that his veracity upon the facts in this case is above question.

The manner in which the excitement has been produced, every locality becoming excited on account of the rumors reaching it from abroad, and not from anything happening in the immediate vicinity, explains much that we have heard in regard to the terror of the people East of the Mountains. It is to be hoped no active troubles will arise out of these false reports, but surely there is no better way to get up an Indian war than to get into a panic and proceed to treat the Indians as if the war had already commenced. There is no sufficient evidence of disaffection among any of the Indians in or adjacent to Oregon, except the little band headed by Captain Jack, and they are in California. Persons desiring to migrate to Oregon and Washington Territory may rest assured there are more chances of their being killed by lightning or dying of congestive chills in any of the Mississippi Valley States than of their being murdered by Indians in either of these countries.

We read of two Governments on the continent of Europe who seem disposed to aid and encourage the people of Spain in their struggle for national freedom. There may be others, but if there be, no report of their friendliness has troubled the bed of the Atlantic. A few days since we noticed the fact that the Council of Switzerland had notified one of the scions of the house of Don Carlos to leave Swiss territory. In several instances the scouts and skirmishers of Carlism have met with rigorous treatment in this little Republic. The other Government to which we have made reference is Portugal. A Lisbon dispatch of May 1st states that the Portuguese Government has ordered all the Carlist refugees from Spain to leave its territory, giving them the choice of going to any country except France. The exception in this decree is as just and nice a rebuke as could be administered to the pretentious republicanism which stands aloof from the Spanish Cabinet, or aids and abets the Carlist raids on the northwestern borders of Spain.

Gen. J. T. Averill, in reply to the strictures of the St. Paul Press upon the back-pay-grab, writes a letter to that journal in which he does not resort to any subterfuges, nor offer any apologies for his course in voting for the steal, but simply says he voted for it because he believed it to be just and right. The arguments that satisfied members of Congress that they could rightfully put their hands into the public pocket and take therefrom thousands of dollars to which they had no right beyond that of the physical ability to do so, will hardly be sufficiently powerful to produce the same impression upon other minds. And if these men were the outside, paying people instead of the inside payees of, they would be equally as hard to convince as are the people.

A special dispatch to the London Standard, dated May 9th, says that a serious difference has risen between Archduke Charles Louis and Baron Schwartz. The former is the patron, the latter Superintendent, of the Exposition. The cause of the difficulty is not given, beyond the mere statement that it is concerning the tardiness in all the arrangements of the Exposition. The Emperor of Austria supports Baron Schwartz. The Archduke, it is said, has taken umbrage and left Vienna. It would not be at all surprising if the whole business broke up in a grand, international row.

Attorney-General Williams recently received a telegram from Mr. Kellogg, of Louisiana, asking him if Gen. Sherman had sent a dispatch to Gen. Emory, in which it stated that "the President deprecates any interference by United States troops." Mr. Williams, after consulting with General Sherman, replied that the dispatch was a forgery. Some Washington politician is responsible for the fraud, probably.

We are in receipt of a semi-monthly magazine issued at Des Moines, Iowa, entitled "The Western Life Boat." It is devoted to "Pen-Sketches of Men of our Times." A portrait of A. C. Edmunds, who was here in 1862, is on the cover, and the first portrait inside is that of Jasper W. Johnson, got up on the same wood-cut block that Frank Leslie used during the campaign.

The Gothamites of California are busily engaged setting up pins for the Senatorial election. His newspapers are making the most of every opportunity to advertise his merits. The people of California will have little rest from now on till the question who is to be Senator is decided.

The Bulletin announces the death of the Countess de Pourtales, daughter of Ben Holladay, Esq. She died at Chicago, while on her way from this city to New York, where she expected to embark for Europe. During her stay in Portland she made many friends, who deeply mourn her loss.

A gentleman in Washington City claims to have sent the first postal card through the United States mails. It was a note addressed to a publisher in New York city, and contained 1,500 words written in phonographic characters.

The extensive rolling-mill of McDonald & Bro., St. Louis, together with a large stock, was burned on the morning of May 10th.

A Lost Tribe.

From the apparently most reliable source it appears that the Modoc tribe, at the commencement of the war, numbered 201 souls—warriors, squaws, pappooses, Modoc Sally and Shacknasty Jim included. Of this number 60 were warriors, and according to the latest accounts seventeen of these are known to have been killed, and twice that number wounded. This makes a total of 51 rendered hors du combat. And dispatches from the lava beds say that there must have been many killed and wounded that we know nothing of. To be moderate, let us suppose the "many" to be eight, and we have a total of fifty killed and wounded, which leave a balance of one warrior; and as none of the reports mention that Captain Jack has gone to the happy hunting grounds, this mighty chieftain must be the one who is keeping our army at bay. No wonder that General Gillem telegraphs that "the position of the Modocs has not been discovered." When the fighting force of an army has been reduced to one man, it must be difficult for the skirmishers to feel him. The advance of the troops must necessarily be slow, as every bush is likely to contain Captain Jack. But the very latest intelligence is inspiring. Two squaws have been captured. All of the cavalry and the Warm Spring Indians are out scouting for the trail, and we hope that two or three more bloody battles will decimate Captain Jack so that he may be induced to smoke the pipe of peace with his "great father" in Washington.—Corinne Reporter.

The Unstrained Quality of Brass

Parson Brownlow writes to the Cincinnati Commercial to correct the statement that he "hesitated for some weeks, but finally took the 'back-pay' money, at the same time cursing the poverty, protracted illness, and big doctors' bills that forced him to do it," which statement he had seen credited to the Commercial. He says.

As I voted every time the question came up in favor of the much denounced increase of salary, I am surprised to see the statement copied above. I took the increased compensation cheerfully and without hesitation, not because of poverty (though I am not rich), but because the increase provided for is just and right in itself. I could have dodged the vote, as members of both Houses of Congress did, and more easily than others, for it was late at night when the vote was taken, and in the condition of my health I was not expected to be in my seat, but I preferred being on record in favor of it, though I knew there were enough to pass the bill without my vote I had two reasons for voting for this bill

First—All my life I have been an advocate of large salaries for public officers, and of competent, honest and orthodox men to fill them. I believe it is economy in the State to have such men in office, and to pay them liberal compensation. While I was Governor of this State, the Legislature, on my recommendation, increased the salaries of every important office in the State At the time the Democracy, who were the "outs," greatly abused me for it, but they have had control of the State government in all its branches for four years, and in no single instance have they reduced the salary of a single officer. I have no doubt that nine tenths of those who have denounced what they term the "salary steal" would have voted for the increased compensation had they been members of Congress The denunciation of it is almost exclusively a species of demagoguism, and an attempt to hoodwink the "dear people," for which I have a supreme contempt.

My second reason for supporting the bill was that I considered my services to Tennessee and the country worth $10,000 per annum. As editor and proprietor of the Knoxville Whig I had long been accustomed to an income of $10,000 a year I felt while an editor that I earned my wages, and I think that my labor is worth as much as Senator as it was as editor. And I now think that I am doing a liberal part by the country in consenting to serve it at the salary of $7,500

Very respectfully,

W. G. Brownlow.

An American Senator in Paris.

A correspondent of the New York World has seen Jim Nye in Paris, and this is the way he does him up:

His works do not follow him as in the litany, but they go before him, as the fire went before Cassandra, and gild his way. Newspapers groan with his biography. Legislative bodies invite him to a seat of honor within their chambers. He gets tickets to unexpected balls. The driver of the voiture calls him Excellency, the concierge grovels before him. It is likely that in some cases the errant patriot came away from home without knowing how great a man he was. A prophet hath little honor in his own country—and here Congressmen and Senators, not to mention Governors, Brigadier Generals and other citizens of titular eminence, are so very cheap that the appearance of them excites little emotion. They come and go without producing any noticeable effects upon society, and without other celebration than the record of their names upon the hotel register. It is not so in Paris. There a patriot of trans-Atlantic breed is regarded as an object of curiosity and wonder. When he strolls forth upon the boulevard interested eyes follow him, contemplating his fine swagger, his dignified abdominal plentitude, the attenuation of his coat-tails. At the cafe the garcon reverentially spills coffee down the patriot's back in his eagerness to serve. At the opera lorgnettes are bent upon him. In the salon, statesmen who do not understand his language, hang upon his accents. He is likened to Washington. He tastes the sweets of fame. He does not speak French, and is not compelled to justify his claims to renown—he finds them already discounted and the proceeds placed to his credit. And so he draws upon them with noble liberality, as one who, having come into unexpected fortune, spends lavishly, blaspheming the expense.

Nye seems to be the last American statesman whose fame has taken the French Capital by storm. He dawns upon Lutetia as morning upon the Apennines, a rosy vision, towering and splendid. Scraps of his biography—sibylline leaves, light fragments from the golden book in which the silver apples of his achievements are pictured—have been wafted thither. They have heard of his wit, of the chaste delicacy of his equivoques, of his skill as raconteur. But especially they have heard that he franked his linen home to Nevada to be washed; that he once franked a hog; that he tried to frank a meeting house; that he actually did frank a houseful of furniture, including a dog-churn and a piano.

Further Assurances from East of the Mountains.

Dayton, W. T., May 10, 1873.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

I noticed an article in the Bulletin of the 1st inst., representing that the defiant and hostile bands of Indians were gathering at Priest's Rapid; that they had warned me, with other settlers; that I had myself brought the news to Walla Walla the day before, and that it was feared the difficulty would be serious. Now I wish to say that this whole story is false. I have never been to Walla Walla with any such news. There has been some excitement here and in other parts of this upper country about Indians, not because there have been any demonstrations of hostility on their part, but because the times are rather dull here just now, and there are a few designing persons who would like to see an Indian war, in order that troops might be sent into the vicinity and help to make money a little more plentiful. I have seen men from nearly all parts of this country in the last few days, and have seen letters from the most remote settlements, and there have been no signs of hostility at any of these places. They have all heard these same stories, and in some instances they have organized companies and sent to the Governor for arms for home protection; not that they apprehend danger from anything they have seen about home or abroad, but from what reports say in reference to other localities.

The truth is, the Indians are well disposed in all this country; but it is not so with all the whites.

Now these foolish misrepresentations are doing a great injury by frightening the women and new comers, who are not prepared to make full allowance for newspaper misrepresentations. It has a tendency to keep out emigration from the best country for settlement, on this coast, when there is no danger whatever. Yours,

S M. Wait.

The Indian Contracts.

In speaking of the awards of contracts recently made by the Indian Commissioners, the N. Y. Tribune gives the following statement of the case of O. S. Dawson, to which reference has hitherto been made in our Eastern dispatches:

O S Dawson states that he bid as follows on the Santee, Yanston, Whetstone, Upper Missouri, Cheyenne River, Grand River and Red Cloud Agencies: "I propose to deliver, as per your advertisement of March 20, 1873, marketable beef cattle, to conform to your advertisement of that date, in quality, age, weight and time of delivery, for whole amount," at the uniform rate of $2 69½ per 100 pounds weight, on the hoof. The total of General Dodge's beef award is 8,350,000 pounds, and his figure is 6⅔ cents greater than that of Mr. Dawson, or a total of $462,375; and J. W. Slaven's total is 6,350,000 pounds, at 3½ cents over Mr. Dawson's bid, or, for the whole amount, $222,250; and the sum of these totals is $684,625. Mr. Dawson also states that his bid was rejected on a technicality, and that he was promised that if he would amend the form of his bid his offers would be considered; but that influence was afterward brought to bear which defeated this promise. He claims that he is an old contractor, and has never failed to keep his engagements, even when they were to his disadvantage. Also, that there are other cases of this kind, and that General Dodge, aside from his Credit Mobilier complications, is an engineer on the Union Pacific Railroad, and "in with" the Indian authorities.

A New York correspondent of the Charleston Courier and News writes.

Fresh scandals, affecting the character of Mr. Beecher have been developed from the quarrel between the editors of the Brooklyn Eagle and Union. Some of these are so fearful in their nature that it seems as if Mr. Beecher would be committing a fatal error if he insisted upon keeping his mouth closed any longer. There is some terrible mystery surrounding Mr. Beecher's domestic affairs. Woodhull and Claflin's charges, Tilton's hints, Bowen's letters, have some other foundation than mere fancy. Some day the facts will come out. In the meantime, Beecher pursues the even tenor of his way, and says nothing, while his friends, who are many, do not appear to have lost confidence in him.

Tale of a Suicide.—A few weeks since a gentleman in driving along the outskirts of New York city, discovered the body of a man swinging from the limb of a tree. Assistance was procured, the body was taken down and the deceased found to be a German, name unknown. In his pockets were found an empty purse, and the following note giving the sad reason for self-murder

On one side were destitution, sickness, ruined health, a want of ability to push my way in this world, and a deep felt weariness of life, and nothing to live for No interest in anything Sunk down from my position in society, exiled from my Fatherland and my family. Standing here absolutely alone, without a friend, with age advancing against me, as an enemy, and no power to resist it In short, everything absent that makes life bearable, and everything present to make existence a burden and a curse And on the other side, eternal peace. I hope my Creator will take into merciful consideration my miserable life, and what I have to suffer if living. Yet, I humbly dare to hope for a merciful judgment I hope that my corpse shall not be identified, but, if that should unhappily take place, then I implore, as a dying man's last prayer, that nothing be told my family about the manner in which I went out of the world It can do nobody any good, but will surely cause much pain. If something must be told, then say that I died and did not suffer much; and so may God take pity on my miserable soul. World, farewell.

Printing Office for Sale.—A Newspaper and a thoroughly equipped Job office, in one of the most thriving towns on the N. W. coast, is for sale. Does a large amount of Job work and has a large and increasing subscription list and is otherwise prosperous. Either a half or whole interest will be sold Terms: part cash and part on time, or will trade for negotiable paper. SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 17, 1873.

CITY.

[illegible] BEAT.—On complaint of a man [illegible] Theodore Rolfes, a warrant was issued [illegible] Justice Ryan's Court on Thursday, for the [illegible] of one John Sweeny. Both of the parties [illegible] over on the Columbia river, near Rooster [illegible]. Yesterday morning the Constable [illegible] to make the arrest. Sweeny is charged [illegible] having assaulted Rolfes without provocation, and of beating him nearly to death. [illegible] it seems lived on adjoining farms. [illegible] days since, Sweeny found Rolfes chopping [illegible] near the line, but on his own land. Sweeny [illegible] him of cutting timber which did not belong to him, and ordered him under threats to desist. Rolfes replied that he had paid for the land; [illegible] was his own, and he did not intend to leave. [illegible] his work in defiance of Sweeny. A [illegible] days ago Sweeny went out, and finding Rolfes alone and still cutting timber, he assaulted him and beat him most shockingly. His face [illegible] to a jelly and several of his ribs nearly [illegible]. After beating him to his satisfaction, [illegible] walked away leaving Rolfes lifeless, as [illegible] supposed. In an hour or more Rolfes returned [illegible] and managed to crawl back [illegible]. As soon as able, he came to this [illegible] out a warrant for the arrest of [illegible]. We are unable at present to state whether the constable has arrested Sweeny.

[illegible] MOVED.—Hereafter the railroad ferry, [illegible] landed at the foot of F street, will [illegible] at a point just above the old distillery [illegible]. Last fall the bank was excavated in [illegible] the landing accessible to vehicles [illegible] plank roadway laid down to the water's [illegible]. A short time since the piles were driven [illegible] to enable the boat to effect [illegible]. Yesterday evening the ferry-[illegible] was attached to the pontoon and towed down [illegible] the new landing point. The pontoon was secured [illegible] and everything is ready for [illegible] will be completed to go a short distance [illegible] to reach the new landing. [illegible] disadvantage is more than [illegible] by the convenience to the ferry-[illegible] landings. The ferry can now [illegible] the river and not be com[illegible] circuitous route.

[illegible] One hundred and forty boxes [illegible] cartridges, were brought over [illegible] at Vancouver yesterday. These [illegible] serviceable" and are on [illegible]. On being received at the arsenal [illegible] were opened by the [illegible] and found to be in a damaged [illegible] consequently rejected and [illegible]. This ammunition will be [illegible] where it was turned out. [illegible] to the forwarding of [illegible] will have to be borne [illegible], having failed to [illegible] requirements in the manu[illegible]. The condemned lot [illegible] quite sufficient to [illegible] all the Modocs if used with discre[illegible]

[illegible]—The case of the State [illegible] Mary Kelly and Jon Furey, charged with the [illegible] Stanton, on [illegible] up for examination [illegible] in the Police Court. The [illegible] sufficient to hold the [illegible] and Mary Kelly were both bound [illegible] the grand jury in the sum of [illegible]. The former gave the required bonds [illegible] the latter, in default of [illegible] to await the action of the [illegible] jury. [illegible] the principal witness, [illegible] held to appear in the [illegible] of $[illegible], and not being able to give bail, was also sent to jail.

AN OLD "KNEE."—Among a lot of old castings brought over [illegible] on the steamer Vancouver is an iron "knee," which was taken out of [illegible] nearly half a century ago. This "knee," [illegible] was attached to the first sailing vessel [illegible] to the old Hudson Bay Company that [illegible] the Columbia river. During the con[illegible] of a heavy storm of [illegible] the vessel [illegible] and the knee broken. [illegible] was then but a trading post. The [illegible] ascended the river to that point, where the [illegible] taken out, [illegible] a new one [illegible].

[illegible] BIBLE SOCIETY.—The following order [illegible] has been arranged by the committee [illegible] Union Bible Society Meeting, to be held in [illegible] Taylor street M. E. Church to-morrow evening, May 18th, at 7:45: Singing; prayer, [illegible] J. D. Eaton; reading the Scriptures, by [illegible]; singing; annual [illegible], by Rev. [illegible]; singing; abstract of report of [illegible] Committee, by Rev. G. H. Atkinson; [illegible], by Rev. I. D. Driver, Agent of the [illegible] Bible Society; singing and closing exercises.

[illegible] NEW STEAMER.—The engines, boiler, [illegible] which were saved from the steamer [illegible], wrecked several months ago off the [illegible] of the Umpqua river, and shipped to San [illegible], are on board the bark Free Trade due [illegible] port. In the course of a week or so the [illegible] for the construction of another steamer [illegible] awarded by the W. R. T. Co., designed to [illegible] connection with the Gov. Grover. The machinery expected to arrive on the Free Trade [illegible] be overhauled and placed in the new boat.

[illegible] FORWARD.—From the vigor with which [illegible] on the new building for the Oregon City [illegible] mills is being pushed ahead, that structure [illegible] roofed by the first of June. Had not so [illegible] delay been incurred in getting the necessary material on the ground, the roof would probably have been completed ere this writing. The [illegible] calls for the completion of the building [illegible] of June. Unless unexpected delays [illegible], the building will be ready for the [illegible] of the machinery before that date.

[illegible] KICK.—A [illegible] named Gale engaged in [illegible] complimentary conversation on last [illegible] with a Celestial, which ended in Gale im[illegible] his [illegible] kicks with a No. 10 brogan. [illegible] arrested and brought before [illegible]. Not being prepared for trial, [illegible] and when the case was [illegible] morning he failed to appear, [illegible] forfeited his bail. Whether or [illegible] satisfaction, the kick proved a [illegible].

[illegible] RECOVERED.—After a long and persistent [illegible] the body of young Zellar, who was [illegible] in the Clackamas river on Thursday [illegible] was recovered yesterday afternoon. The body was found about three hundred yards [illegible] the unfortunate occurrence took place. At a late hour yesterday evening the remains was brought to the city by private conveyance and removed to the residence of the afflicted parents. The funeral will probably take place to day.

FIRST INSTALLMENT.—The first installment of [illegible] for the woolen mills at Oregon City [illegible] at San Francisco a short time ago over [illegible] the East. It was shipped on board the [illegible] Free Trade, now due at this port. This installment consists of 71 large packages and four [illegible] of belting. The remainder of the machinery will arrive soon in separate installments. All will be on hand by the time the building is [illegible] to have the machinery.

[illegible]—Rev. Dr. Lindsley is expected to [illegible] Fort Lapwai this afternoon, and consequently, the Presbyterian Church will be open Sabbath morning. In the evening it will be [illegible] account of the Union Bible meeting, to be held in the Taylor street M. E. Church at that time. [illegible] other clergymen accompany the [illegible].

CHURCH DEBT SETTLED.—We have the pleasure of chronicling the fact that the debt on the [illegible] City Church is now fully provided for, and the Methodists in that place are not sold out. There was sent from this city for that purpose $[illegible]13 50. W. S. Ladd and E. J. Northrop deserve [illegible] praise for their liberal donations.

FUNERAL.—The funeral obsequies of the late [illegible] Zellar, will take place to morrow (Sunday) [illegible] his parents' residence, corner of Main and [illegible] streets, at 1:30 P. M. The friends of the [illegible] are invited to attend the obsequies.

DELAYED IN SAILING.—The steamer Ajax, not[illegible] so announced, did not sail for San [illegible] last evening. She will leave the wharf [illegible] at 9 A. M. with freight and passengers for San Francisco.

DIVINE SERVICE.—The usual divine service will be held at St. Stephens' Chapel to-morrow at 11 A. M. At 4 o'clock Choral service will be [illegible].

ENGINE FINISHED.—The new engine which will be used in connection with the stove foundry on the east side of the river, has been finished. Yesterday it was taken over together with the connecting gear, etc., and will be placed in running condition at once. This engine will have a working capacity of sixteen horse power.

FUNERAL NOTICE.—The friends and acquaintances of the late Samuel N. Hughes, formerly mate of the Dixie Thompson, are respectfully invited to attend his funeral to day (Saturday) from the Globe Hotel, corner of C and Front streets, at 1 o'clock P. M.

A SPECIAL MEETING.—A special meeting of the Board of Delegates of the Portland Fire Department will be held this evening, at the Police Court room, at 7:30 o'clock. Important business will be transacted and a full Board is desirable.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

At an adjourned meeting of the Washington Guard the following report of a committee appointed at a previous meeting to draft resolutions expressive of the feelings of the company in reference to the sudden death of the late Captain Charles S. Mills, was read and unanimously adopted:

The sudden and unexpected death of Captain Charles S. Mills, late commander of the Washington Guard, Co. A, O. V. M., who has departed from us in the prime of life, in the vigor of manhood, and at the zenith of his usefulness, casts a shadow of gloom over us, and leaves a void that cannot be filled.

His successful efforts in organizing and maintaining our company have commanded the respect and secured the confidence of all men who felt the necessity of having a reliable military company in our midst.

On several occasions he has tendered his services, with those of his company, to the State, and was ever ready on the shortest notice to do duty as guard or escort, or to engage in the sterner realities of dangerous conflict when necessary; therefore, be it

Resolved, That by the death of Captain Mills our company has lost an able and efficient commander.

Resolved, That our re election of him as Captain each year for eleven years is a small testimonial of our appreciation of Captain Mills, and we shall ever cherish his memory for his many virtues.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with his family in their very sad and unexpected bereavement.

Resolved, That our hall be draped in mourning; that these resolutions be spread upon the records of the company, and that a duly attested copy thereof be furnished to the family of the deceased.

NEW BOOKS AT THE LIBRARY.

The following new works have just been received and added to the Portland Library:

Historical Essays, by Edward A. Freeman, M. A., Hon. D. C. L., late Fellow of Trinity College, Oxford.

New Life in New Lands—Notes of Travel—by Grace Greenwood.

Mark Gildersleeve, a novel, by John S. Sauzade.

A Book of Epitaphs, Amusing, Curious and Quaint, being light readings on grave subjects, compiled by Charles Northend.

The Other Girls, by Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, with illustrations by J. J. Harley.

My Story of Metropolisville, by Edward Eggleston, author of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster."

American Constitutions, comprising the Constitution of each State in the Union, and of the United States, with the Declaration of Independence and articles of Confederation, each accompanied by a historical introduction and notes, together with a classified analysis of the Constitutions, by Franklin B. Hough. 2 vols.

Education in Japan; a series of letters addressed by prominent Americans to Arinori Mori.

PERSONAL.

Bishop Morris, who is now on a ministerial visit to Idaho and Eastern Oregon, is expected to return to this city about the 23d inst.

Prof. L. L. Rowland, formerly Professor of Languages in Christian College, and late of Willamette University, is in the city and will take passage on the steamer to-day with his family for a visit to the Eastern States.

Hon. W. D. Pettinger, Clerk of Washington county, with his brother T. W. Pettinger of Ohio and Chas. A. M. Myers of Philadelphia, Pa., brother of Geo. T. Myers of this city, are in San Francisco. They will likely be passengers on the next steamer.

Profs. Collier of Forest Grove, Gatch and Hall of Salem, and Rev. Thos. Condon of the Dalles, will leave for the mountains early in July on an exploring expedition. Mr. Jos. Buchtel will accompany the party to take photographic views and to help "rough it."

AMUSEMENTS.

The Champions of the Red Cross have concluded to give a picnic and excursion on the 27th of this month and the picnic grounds opposite Canemah have been selected. Good music has been provided for the occasion, and the steamer Annie Stewart chartered. The exercises at the grounds will consist of an oration and various pleasant games. We are authorized to state that neither foot, sack nor wheelbarrow race will appear in the programme.

Mr. Otto Treuer proposes to give a grand excursion to the picnic grounds opposite Canemah to-morrow. He has chartered the elegant steamer Annie Stewart for the trip, and also engaged the East Portland Brass Band for the occasion. The steamer will leave the foot of Alder street to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, and calling at Milwaukie, Oswego and Oregon City for excursionists, will pass through the locks to the grounds above. Arrangements have been made for the comfort and pleasure of those who may attend.

BASE BALL.

A base ball nine has been organized among the female students of Buchtel College, Ohio.

This afternoon the Rustlers, of Oregon City, consisting of the following players—J. Warren, W. E. Pratt, (Captain), E. Swafford, G. Harding, C. E. Cross, Wm. Warren, J. Wortman, A. Fellows and Geo. Warner, will play the Pacific Club the return game on the grounds in East Portland, opposite foot of Washington street.

The Pioneer Club practice at four P. M. On Tuesday next Thompson and Bird's nines play the final game to decide the superiority of each contesting side. The last game played between these nines resulted in favor of Thompson's side, necessitating the third game. The first nine will positively be selected next Tuesday evening and then follow match games.

A NEW PROPOSITION FOR A BRIDGE ACROSS THE WALLAMET.

Yesterday morning we mentioned that a plan was on foot which would probably secure the construction of a bridge across the river on the line approved by the Secretary of War, that is, from the foot of Columbia street in this city to the foot of Asylum street in East Portland. At that time we had no sufficient information in the premises to be able to give any particulars in regard to the plan upon which the enterprise was to be inaugurated. We have been furnished by the promoters of the work with the following form of subscription, which explains itself:

Know all men by these presents: That—whereas, it is both desirable and necessary to build and construct a bridge across the Wallamet river, for the accommodation of the public between the cities of Portland and East Portland, and, whereas, a bridge from Columbia street, in the city of Portland, crossing to the foot of Asylum street, in the city of East Portland, with roadway 17 or 18 feet in width, with foot-way for passengers 4 feet wide on each side, 200 feet span, with drawbridge 275 feet in length, of the Howe Truss pattern, upon piers as approved by the Secretary of War, can be built for $105,000, and can be completed by the 1st day of January, 1874:

Now, therefore, we, whose names are subscribed to this article, hereby agree in consideration of the building of said bridge, to pay each for himself, the amount set opposite his name to J. C. Hawthorne, Clinton Kelly, S. J. McCormick, Charles Hodge and J. A. Strowbridge, who shall constitute the Trustees of said Bridge Company, and receive and collect subscriptions and contract for the building of said bridge, to the lowest responsible bidder, at a cost not to exceed the said sum of $105,000, gold coin. Said subscriptions to be paid in U. S. gold coin, and to be collected by said Committee or Trustees as follows: One-fourth of the amount due and payable when one-fourth of the work is completed, one fourth when the bridge is one-half completed, one-fourth when three-fourths of the work is completed, and one-fourth of said subscription shall be collected and paid when the bridge is completed to the satisfaction of said Trustees, according to the contract made by said Trustees for the building of said bridge, which shall be completed on or before the 1st day of May, 1874. And we hereby agree, each for himself, to pay said quarterly installments as the work progresses, when called upon by said Trustees, who are hereby authorized to do all acts necessary to carry into effect the foregoing object.

It is herein provided that each person who subscribes the sum of one hundred dollars or upward, shall have a free pass upon and across said bridge after its completion, for himself and household.

It is further provided that said Trustees may incorporate, if deemed necessary, and collect tolls from all persons other than subscribers or their household as above, that the Trustees may be enabled to clear said bridge of any indebtedness upon its completion.

It is further provided that the Trustees may, when deemed expedient, turn said bridge over to the County or City authorities of Portland, provided they will keep the same in repair and maintain the same as a free passenger bridge.

Provided, further, that the city of Portland shall have the right to lay pipes upon said bridge, to convey both water and gas across said river, free of charge, provided that all expenses of laying pipes shall be borne exclusively by the parties making use of the same.

It is further provided that should a vacancy occur among the Trustees, it shall be the duty of the remaining Trustees to give 5 days' notice to the subscribers, by publication in one of the daily newspapers in the city of Portland, that an election will be held at some designated place, to fill said vacancy, each subscriber to have one vote for each $100 subscribed by him.

We are informed that eighteen subscriptions have been received, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $40,000, all from persons amply able to respond to the calls of the company according to the terms of their agreement.

IN MEMORIAM.

At a special meeting of the City Council, held on Tuesday evening, May 13th, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, Dr. Forbes Barclay, who was for several terms Mayor of our city, at other times a member of the City Council, for a number of years the efficient and pains-taking Superintendent of the City school, and for over twenty long years the kind, skillful, devoted physician in our midst, as well as being especially prominent as the faithful friend, the courteous gentleman, and honest, noble hearted, true man and citizen, has been called away by death; therefore,

Be it Resolved by the City Council of Oregon City: That sorrowing most deeply in our common affliction in the death of Dr. Barclay, we are glad to place on record our high appreciation of his many virtues and noble qualities controlling him in all his relations in life.

That we shall not forget his wise counsels and efficient labors in endeavoring to secure the prosperity of our city, and the general good of the community in which he lived.

That we most deeply sympathize with his afflicted family, and assure them of our strong desire for their true comfort in this hour of affliction.

That as one slight token of our regard for our deceased friend we will attend his funeral as a body.

That insignia of mourning be kept in the Council Chamber for thirty days in respect to his memory.

That these resolutions and preamble be spread upon the Journal of our proceedings, and a copy thereof sent under the corporate seal to the widow of the deceased; and also to the Bulletin, OREGONIAN, and Herald of Portland, and the Enterprise of Oregon City.

F. O. McCOWN, Mayor.

Attest: W. P. BURNS, Recorder.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Oscar Kilbourn, the popular and energetic auctioneer, will dispose of some very desirable property—both real and personal—this morning at 10 o'clock. He will sell at auction lot 4 in block 36, Couch's Addition, with the dwelling house thereon, together with a splendid stock of household furniture. The sale will be held on Fourth street, between F and G.

Mr. John Kennedy, formerly of the Philadelphia Shoe Store, is now at the San Francisco Shoe Store with Fleischner & Crone, where he will be pleased to wait upon his friends and customers, with one of the largest and finest stocks of boots and shoes on the coast. He will also continue to take measures for ladies' custom-made shoes.

A number of dry goods boxes emptied of their contents led the public to believe that something new had just been opened, and upon closer inspection it was found that the boxes were addressed to J. O'Neil & Co., 95 First street, who had but a few moments before piled up in their store an extensive and varied stock of clothing, gentlemen's furnishing goods, and cloths of fine texture for the manufacture of spring styles in gentlemen's and boys' clothing.

DRESS WELL.—The young man who desires his "make-up" complete should always select the place where the articles desired can be obtained. For a neat-fitting suit, made of the very finest materials, the public is directed to the house of Fishel & Roberts, an establishment which ranks with the leading houses on the coast. The stock is complete, the attention paid to customers, and the promptness with which orders are filled, at once commends this house to all.

If you want pure, fine liquors of any kind, go to E. D. Tyne's, northwest corner of Oak and First streets, agent for the sale of Jessie Moore & Co.'s fine Old Bourbon and Rye Whiskies of Louisville, Ky.

The public mind has been somewhat agitated with the Modoc war, an occasional marine or railway disaster, and the dull times, and the prospect of buying clothing at a figure not large enough to clean a man to the bedrock. The place has been found where you can buy men and boy's clothing, or gentlemen's furnishing goods, at the very lowest prices. It is at Beck & Waldman's, corner of Front and Washington street, where a full assortment of men and boys' clothing, in the latest styles, can be selected from.

A first-class photograph is worth a good price. A poor one is of no value whatever. Therefore the motto of Buchtel & Stolte is—Superior work, equal to any in the United States, for which we demand a good price, and receive the same. Our new Viewing Wagon, for Scenic Views, is now ready, and all orders for pictures of buildings, etc., promptly attended to, at the First Premium Gallery, No. 91 First street, Portland, Oregon.

Substitutes in the Dental Ranks are not desirable; therefore, keep the natural teeth sound, and pure with that wholesome vegetable elixir Sozodont. Do this, and they will last as long as the breath lasts, and the breath itself will never be tainted. 25

The all-gone feeling which people sometimes speak of, is caused by want of proper action of the liver and heart. These may be assisted and the bowels regulated by Parson's Purgative Pills in small doses. 1

Corn and flour are staple articles, but not more so than Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, where known. It is good for children or adults, for any internal soreness of the chests or bowels, and the best Liniment prepared, under whatever name.

HOLLOWAY'S ARNICA PLASTERS.

The original and only true Arnica Plaster, possessing the Great Healing Properties of the Arnica Flowers. The curative effects of these plasters in all cases of Pain or Weakness in the Breast, Side or Back, and in cases of Inflammation of the Lungs and Cough are truly astonishing. They give almost immediate relief. Ask for Holloway's.

FASHIONABLE NOTES.

The hair is worn pretty snarly about the face.

The "Princess" is the latest thing in house dresses.

Caps are worn by even the youngest widow ladies.

The "Alexandra redingote" is a new ladies' overdress.

Satin umbrellas are the "reigning" fashions in New York.

Flat necklaces are the "rage" for short necks in London.

Duchess cloth is the finest woolen fabric ever manufactured.

Suits of gray stuff with stripes that look like sponge are worn.

"Orange blossom faille" is the latest material for bridal dresses.

Velvet and yak lace are the standard trimmings of the season.

Full vails, covered with pearl beads, are a novelty in evening wear.

The Louis Quinze and Plon Plon are two new and stylish basque shapes.

Massive cut steel buttons are the latest adornment for ladies' costumes.

Bonnets and jockeys are suspended at some distance over the wearer's head.

Wide and very long sashes of colored grenadine will be worn this summer.

Powdered hair is again in fashion. Blonde and white are the favorite styles.

Fancy jewelry is much worn on the street again, which is in very bad taste.

Colored linen is coming in vogue again among young ladies for collars and cuffs.

The "Aphrodite" or Girdle of Venus is the newest thing in belts. It is "horrid."

The mousseline ribbon has become very popular; it wears far better than gros grain.

A satirist says that modern society misses two "lost arts," conversation and blushing.

Materials formed of alternate stripes of satin and velvet are very fashionable for skirts.

The old-fashioned "chapeaux bras" are coming into favor again as opera hats—so we hear.

Camel's hair polonaises will be as much worn this spring as cashmere overskirts were two years ago.

The "fade" tints are going out, and the old-fashioned, bright, positive colors are being worn again.

The spring wraps are covered with embroidery, and are extremely pretty in design and material.

Colored ribbons about the neck, with a bow in front, with diamonds thereon, are much worn in full dress.

The present fashionable attachments for ladies' chatelaines are a pencil and tablets in oxydized silver.

Engagement rings are worn as usual, and no politician enters into any engagement without first joining a ring.

Madame Parepa-Rosa in Egypt.

The N. Y. Tribune publishes the following interesting private letter from Madame Parepa-Rosa to a friend in New York city, giving an account of a visit of the great songstress to the ladies of the Khedive's harem:

"We were obliged," she says, "like all ladies visiting the harems, to be dressed in gay colors, as they will not see any one in black, nor do they like dark dresses. We were driven to the different palaces; but I will describe the one of Princess Said. You drive to the door of the outer court, and there all of a row sit about sixteen or eighteen eunuchs, dressed like European gentlemen, but wearing red turbans on their heads, with a great deal of jewelry. There is a heavily wadded curtain of patchwork, most lovely, with a weight at the end; that is lifted, and you enter the yard of the harem; then you pass another thick curtain, and find yourself in a pretty garden, with flowers and lots of orange trees overpowering you with scent; this garden, leading to the staircase of the house, is filled with girls from 13 to 18 or 20—some very lovely, others very ugly—dressed with a loose gown drawn in at the waist by a belt of bright colored cotton stuff, and a sort of little turban on the head of different colored tarletanes, very bright, with a flower stuck in the front part of it for the slaves, and a beautiful jeweled branch for the ladies. They looked at us very curiously, and put their hands first to their lips, then to their foreheads, as a welcome. The room we were ushered into was about twice as large as Steinway Hall, with a large bird cage in the middle, divans all around, and looking glasses, and two large tables. The slaves brought us a lighted pipe each, of two yards in length, all the stem wrought in gold, and the mouth-piece of a large piece of amber, attached to the pipe by a great row of diamonds in a gold flat ring setting. We smoked the pipes, they resting on small silver salvers laid on the floor to prevent the carpet burning. Then they brought us coffee in an exquisite little round cup without a handle, the cup being placed upon an egg cup (such as one uses in England for boiled eggs) of filigree of gold, all studded with diamonds. The adopted daughter of the Prince speaks a little French, and was very nice to us. Another Princess, the daughter-in-law of the Khedive, speaks perfect French, and kept me a long time talking. She was dressed in the highest Parisian fashion, a charming girl of 14, just married a few weeks ago to the second son of the viceroy." Just before leaving Cairo, Madame Rosa had a remarkable benefit at the opera house, of which we cite an account. "The benefit was taken in hand by the best Greek, English, and American residents here, who raised a subscription among themselves to illuminate the theater with wax candles, and buy up the whole theatre for their own friends; the public having a poor chance for places, and offering any sum for seats and boxes. They ordered 240 bouquets, and in the front of each box were placed two bouquets, and sonnets, in different languages, printed on different colored paper. At the eleventh hour (24 hours before the performance) Medini, the basso, who was to have sung a Greek song, was taken ill and could not sing, so I had to learn a song in Greek. You may fancy my agony at pronouncing a language I don't know, but they all say I did it very well, and the public nearly went mad over me. The showers of bouquets were wonderful. Two stage clearers had to come and help me. Then I had two lyres presented to me, with a large magnificent gold Egyptian necklace and earrings, presented by the subscribers. In fact, it was an ovation en regle, and I was delighted, as you may fancy. After the opera the English Consul and family, the Broadways, and several other ladies and gentlemen, surprised me at home, and a Mr. Johanides, the head of the Greeks here, came to compliment me. We had lots of champagne and supper, and I never laughed so much in my life. I have had since the benefit another pair of ear-rings, and a locket in the shape of a Maltese cross, with gold and white enamel, and a Turkish silk opera handkerchief, all woven in silver, gold, and different silks; also a magnificent fan of ostrich feathers."

COLEMANS EUCALYPTUS

Dr. J. S. Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining all the valuable medicinal qualities of the Eucalyptus, which is cultivated in nearly every California garden for its medicinal utility, having become the household remedy for all disease of the KIDNEYS, BLADDER and URINARY CANAL, and SEMINAL WEAKNESS. It seems to have a direct affinity for the GENITO-URINARY ORGANS and their surroundings, and cures them by its alterative, healing and balsamic properties more effectually than any other known remedy.

It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and serous membranes, such as BRONCHITIS, HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY, DYSPEPSIA, LEUCORRHŒA, etc.

This preparation is the result of Dr. Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U. S. Marine Hospital in San Francisco, in 1871 and 1872, where he had unusual facilities for testing the various methods of preparing the remedy, and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the promised results, and hundreds of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office, 405 Kearney street, San Francisco.

COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS is a powerful, yet harmless, febrifuge, and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys, and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions, while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and arsenical remedies for these diseases are entirely avoided.

FOR PHYSICIANS, Coleman's Fluid Extract of Eucalyptus in 1-lb bottles.

Beware of imitations, and take none but COLEMAN'S. For sale everywhere, and by Hodge, Calef & Co., Wholesale Druggists, Portland, Sole Agents for Oregon.

Sold!

[Lines found in a scrap-book at Portland, Oregon, the morning after the recent lunar eclipse:]

The eclipse is a sell,
I know it right well,
For I sat up all night to observe it;
I shivered and shook,
But never a look
I got—and yet I deserve it.

For it must be avow'd
That, when under a cloud,
A man in the moon, or on earth, goes,
True charity brings
Her mantle, and flings
To cover his weakness and sorrows.

And if any eye
Should unfeelingly try
Aught that's hidden beneath to discover,
To that eye ne'er a peep
Should come of sweet sleep—
And the man should be restless and shiver.

So the interests of Science
May rest in abeyance—
No more will I watch—if I know it;
And warm in my bed,
[illegible] the moon overhead,
And the stars, go eclipsed, they may go it.

TEN MINUTES IN A LIFE.

In the year 1065 of the Hegira corresponding to 1687 of the Christian era on the second day of the feast of Beiram, a large group of Mussulmans were assembled in a circle before the Mosque of St. Sophia. Some were standing, and others sitting cross-legged on carpets spread upon the sand. The group increased as Moslems issued from the mosque, and as passers-by, prompted by curiosity, remained to see what was going on.

In the midst of a crowd of smokers, a young man of remarkably handsome features, though somewhat bronzed by an Asiatic sun, was seated before a small table, which was covered with swords and brass balls. He was dressed in a close jacket of green silk admirably fitted to set off his light and graceful figure; a girdle of antelope skin, on which some mysterious characters were inscribed in silver, confined a pair of loose trousers which were drawn close at the angle. This light and attractive dress was completed by a Phrygian cap, from the top of which hung a small musical bell. By this costume, at once graceful and fantastic, it was easy to recognize one of those jugglers whom the feast of Beiram drew every year to Stamboul, and to whom was usually given the name of Zingaro.

The juggler performed his exploits without appearing to notice the admiration he excited. He took a pigeon's egg from a small wire basket, and, placing it upright on the table, struck it with the edge of his sword without injuring the shell. An incredulous bystander took the egg to examine it, but the slight pressure of his fingers sufficed to destroy the frail object that had resisted the blow of the scimetar.

This act of dexterity was followed by many others. The boldness of the young man terrified the usually impassive Turks; and, what was yet more surprising, he made them smile by the amusing stories he related. Persons of his profession were generally silent, and their only power of amusement lay in their fingers' ends; but this man possessed the varied qualities of an Indian juggler and an Arabian story-teller.

One of the most enthusiastic admirers of the juggler's art was a man apparently about forty years old, whose carpet was placed in the first row, and whose dress denoted him to be of superior rank. It was the Bostangi-Bassa, superintendent of the gardens and keeper of the privy purse to the Grand Signior. The tricks ended, the young man completed his essay, and gathered up his implements as if to depart.

"Stop," said the Bostangi-Bassa. "Since you are such a magician, will you tell me the Sultan's favorite flower?"

"The poppy of Aleppo; it is red," replied the juggler, without a moment's hesitation.

"At what time does the Sultan sleep?" resumed the Bostangi.

"Never!" said the juggler.

The Bassa started and looked anxiously around him, fearing lest other ears had heard his answer. Then, beckoning the juggler to approach, and lowering his voice, he asked:

"Can you name the Sultan's favorite wife?"

"Assiach," replied the diviner.

The Bostangi put his fingers on his lips in silence, and, moving away said:

"Follow me!"

The young man took up his yataghan, and, leaving the remainder of his effects to be carried by a slave, followed his guide toward the great door of the palace.

The history of successive sultans often presents little beyond the melancholy spectacle of a throne at the mercy of lawless soldiery. Mahomed was not the first of his race who sought to free the seraglio from these formidable guardians. Solyman III. had also formed this perilous design, but he was put to death by the janizaries, led by Mustapha, his nephew, who came from the Morea for the ostensible purpose of defending the Emperor, but in reality to seize upon his throne. The Sultan Mustapha, who had commenced his reign in such a tragic manner, experienced all the anxiety and uneasiness which must ever attend the acts of a usurper and tyrant. Sordid, insidious and perfidious, he broke through every promise he had made to the janizaries whose creature, nevertheless, he was. Instead of doubling their pay, he diminished it; instead of lessening the taxes, he doubled them. He lived buried in the depths of his palace, the care of which he had confided to the Greek soldiery, notwithstanding the murmurs of the legitimate guards. The mutes, dwarfs and buffoons of the palace could alone obtain access to his presence.

At the time the juggler was amusing the subjects of His Highness, Mustapha was seated reclining on the divan, essaying to drive away his ennui by catching the columns of fragrant smoke as they slowly rose from the long tube of his nargileh. A slave stood by his side, holding a feathered fan of various colors. The buffoons of the palace vainly tried to extort a smile from their master. The impassibility of the Grand Signior gave them to understand that their time was ill chosen, and that mirth would be dangerous; they had, therefore, one after the other, quitted the apartment, waiting to re-enter at the good pleasure of the Prince. The palace was silent.

Suddenly the hangings opposite the divan were gently raised, and a man stood in respectful attitude before Mustapha.

"What would'st thou?" asked the Sultan.

The Bostangi-Bassa—for it was he—replied humbly, according to the custom of the seraglio:

"A juggler stands without; he might perchance amuse your Highness."

The Sultan made an impatient sign in the negative.

"This man," continued the Bassa, "knows strange things. He can read the future."

"Let him come in."

The Bostangi bowed profoundly, and retired.

Black slaves, armed with drawn scimetars, surrounded the imperial sofa when the juggler was introduced. After a slight salutation, the young man leaned gracefully upon his yataghan, awaiting the orders of the Sultan.

"Thy name?" demanded Mustapha.

"Mehalle."

"Thy country?"

"Jugglers have no country."

"Thy age?"

"I was five years old when you first girdled on the sword of Ottoman."

"Whence comest thou?"

"From the Morea, signior," replied the juggler, pronouncing the word with emphasis.

The Sultan remained silent a moment, but soon added, gayly:

"Since you can read the future, I will put your knowedge to the proof. When people know the future they ought to know the past."

"You say right, signior. He who sees the evening star rise on the horizon has but to turn his head to view the last rays of the setting sun."

"Well, tell me how I made my ablutions yesterday."

"The first with Canary wine, the second with wine of Cyprus, and the third with that of Chios."

The Chief of the Believers smiled and stroked his beard; he was indeed in the habit of derogating in this respect, as in many others, from the prescription of the Koran.

"Knowest thou," replied the sovereign, whom the Zingaro's answer had put into a pleasant humor, "knowest thou that I could have thee beheaded."

"Doubtless," said the juggler, undauntedly, "as you did the Spanish merchant who watered his wine before he sold it to you."

Mustapha applauded the knowledge of the magician. He hesitated, nevertheless, before he ventured to put the dreaded question that tyrants, who are ever superstitious, never fail to demand of those who can read the stars;

"How long have I to live?"

The Grand Signior assumed a serious tone, and even condescended to flatter the organ of destiny, in hopes of obtaining a favorable answer.

"Thou art a wonderful youth," said he "thou knowest things of which, besides thyself, the mutes only possess the secret. I should wish to keep thee in my palace; I will make thee richer than all the merchants of Galatea, if thou wilt tell me the year when I must die."

Mehalle approached the Sultan, and taking his hand, appeared to study the lines of its palm with great attention. Having finished its examination he went to the window and fixed his eyes for some moments upon the heavens.

"The fires of Beriam are lighting up the cupola of the grand mosque," said he, slowly: "night is at hand."

Mustapha anxiously awaited the answer of the astrologer. The latter continued in a mysterious manner:

"The declining day still eclipses the light of the constellations. I will answer you signior, when the evening star appears."

The Sultan made a movement of impatience; anger was depicted in his countenance, and the look which he darted on the mutes showed Mehalle that he incurred his Highness's displeasure. Curiosity, however, doubtless prevailed over every other feeling of the princes's mind, for turning to the young man, he said:

"I am little accustomed to wait: I will do so, however, if thou canst amuse me until the propitious hour arrives."

"Would your Highness like to see some feats of juggling?" asked Mehalle, drawing his sabre from his scabbard.

"No, no!" exclaimed the Sultan, making the circle of slaves close in about him. "Leave thy arms!"

"Would you prefer a story, Signior?"

"Stories that lull an Arab to sleep under his tent? No, I must have something new. Of all known games there is but one I care for; I used to play it formerly, but now there is not a person in the palace who understands the chess-board."

The juggler smiled, and taking an ebony box from a velvet bag, he presented it to the Sultan, whose wish he understood.

The stern countenance of the Sultan relaxed at the sight, and the board was placed on the bowed back of the slave. Before commencing the game the Sultan said:

"We are about to play; so far, good; but shouldst thou lose, what should I gain?"

"Since your Highness does me the honor of playing against me, I will stake all that I possess—this scimetar and my liberty. But what if I win?" added the young man, folding his arms.

"Shouldst thou win, I would give thee a slave."

"For a free man? The stake is not equal."

"I would add to it my finest courser."

"I need him not; my feet are swifter than an Arab steed."

"What wouldst thou then?"

"I have a fancy sublime, signior. Until this day I have been nothing but a wanderer, wearing the dress of a juggler. Were I to complain of this I should be ungrateful, for this simple garb has ever seen me free and happy. I however, renounce it. I become your slave; my birth shall be for you alone; I will sing for you Indian songs; and, above all, I will divine for none but you. In turn I will ask but one thing; it is, if I win to allow me to wear your royal mantle for ten minutes, to sit upon the divan, surrounded by slaves, and to place upon my head the dreaded turban, whose fame has reached to the ends of the earth."

The proposition of Mehalle was received with a burst of laughter from the Sultan. "Thou wouldst sit upon the seat of the Caliphs! Dost thou not fear the weight of this turban upon thy silly head? A fine figure thou wouldst make under the pelisse of Ottoman? I should like to see thee giving audience to the vizers and pashas!"

"It is in your Highness' power to afford yourself this pleasure."

"Well," exclaimed Mustapha, "I will agree to the stake. A juggler upon the throne! Such a sight the East never saw."

The game was short. Though he played with skill, the Sultan was check-mated. It was fairly done, and he presently prepared to fulfill his engagement.

Mustapha loosened his girdle, took off his pelisse, and laid down his turban, while a slave assisted to invest Mehalle in the royal garments. These preparations completed, the Sultan, dressed only in loose silken trousers and a richly embroidered vest, approached a clock, and placing his finger on the dial plate. "When the hand shall mark the hour of eight," said he, "I shall have paid my wager, and then I will appoint you my astrologer."

The juggler ascended the divan, and having placed his scimetar at his side, he ordered the door to be thrown open, that the waiting courtiers might be admitted. The apartment, which the dim light of evening render obscure, was immediately filled with moftis and ulemas, agas of janizaries and pashas, great officers of the Porte, and foreign ambassadors. He next ordered a new relay of guards to relieve those on duty, and then the withdrawal of all the personal attendants. It was the work of a moment. As the fresh soldiers were marching in, a sign from Mehalle caused the flambeaux to be lighted, when, in the dazzling flood of illumination, he stood erect, received the homage of the assembly, and fixing more firmly on his head the scarlet-feathered turban, the emblem of power, he cried in a commanding tone: "Let the standard of the Prophet be raised on St. Sophia! The people will salute it from afar at the fires of Beiram!"

At these words an officer stepped forth to execute the orders, but Mustapha, who had been sitting aside, at first amused and then alarmed, arose to prevent him.

"Haggi Mahommed!" thundered the ad interim Sultan, "obey!"

The aga bowed and retired. Mehalle added: "Let the imaums repair to the mosques and offer up petitions for the new Sultan! Cadilisquier, have the tomb of Mustapha opened in Scutari!" The Sultan tried to smile. "Keepers of the Treasury," continued Mehalle, "distribute among the poor of Stamboul the hoardings of the late Sultan!"

"Enough, buffoon!" exclaimed Mustapha, in an agitated voice, on seeing how readily his servants obeyed these strange orders.

"I still command," replied Mehalle, with calm self-possession; "the clock has not yet struck the hour of eight. Art thou then so impatient to know the fate that awaits thee?" The courtiers were at a loss to understand the mysterious scene. They looked with terror on this bold young man, invested with the insignia of power, and the Bostangi was astonished at seeing his master tremble before a strolling juggler.

"Mustapha," continued the diviner, "I am about to tell thee the time of thy death, for the evening star has arisen. Mufti, advance!"

The president of the oumela came forward. The diviner proceeded: "You who read every day the book of our Prophet, and explain it to the people, tell me how avarice and usury, drunkenness and murder, perfidy and cruelty, should be punished."

The mufti replied in a low, grave tone: "By the Koran any one of these crimes is deserving of death."

"Thou hearest, Mustapha? It is the prophet who condemns thee." As he said this he beckoned to the mutes. Mustapha tried to rush to the divan, but was seized by the slaves, who had learned to recognize the symbol of power which Mehalle wore, and the cord was passed around his neck.

"Thy hour has come! I am the son of Solyman, who fell fifteen years ago in this very place, pierced with wounds from thy sword! Thou hast counted the heads of every member of my family. Thou hast confounded the son of thy master with the child of a slave. I am the evening star; I am the Sultan Amurath!"

As he thus spoke the young prince made a step forward. His lofty brow, his features, voice, manner and commanding dignity of person inspired a deep emotion in the assembly. After a moment, the cry went up, "Long live Amurath!" and at the same moment the body of Mustapha fell lifeless on the marble floor.

The clock had struck eight. Before the hour hand had once again passed around the dial, largess had been profusely scattered among the populace of Stamboul, oaths of allegiance taken by officers of the State, and the proclamation, "His Highness, our very magnificent lord and master, Sultan Abdul Aziz Amurath, has ascended the throne" trumpeted by the public crier before the mosque of St. Sophia.—The Argosy.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

FRIDAY EVENING, May 16, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 118¼.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 85½ buying; 86½ selling

Gold bars are quotable at 800 fine

Wheat in Liverpool—Average California, 12s 1d; club, 12s 3d

A pamphlet on financial matters has been published by Mr. Carl Roeser, of Washington, a very intelligent gentleman connected with the German press and widely known both in this country and in Germany, in which he makes a careful comparison of the financial condition of the United States, of Germany and of France, and adduces some valuable facts relative to the whereabouts of the vast amounts of gold coin. From his figures it seems that Germany is overburdened with money, literally suffering from a plethora of specie, in consequence of the four thousand millions received from France as war indemnity. As a result of the same cause, France suffers from a reverse condition of affairs, though by reason of a sound policy and because of the intense patriotism of the French people which led them to the prompt support of the Government, that country has so far escaped the evils to be expected from the drain of 4,000,000,000 francs ($800,000,000) required for the war indemnity. America is the very opposite of Germany. They have too much specie: we have too little. Both here and in that country we find excessive speculation resulting from directly opposite causes. Mr. Roeser thinks that we have made one mistake that the French have wisely avoided, that is, in not putting our paper substitute on an actual specie basis. Our Government is unquestionably in a more settled condition than that of France, yet their credit is better than ours in the money market. This can be accounted for on no other ground than that their financial policy is considered by capitalists superior to ours. These considerations should have a great deal of weight with the managers of our finances in determining the market to which we will send our securities, as also the general policy to be pursued.

Exports of Flour and Wheat.

According to the estimates in the Commercial Report of this date, our exports of wheat to foreign and coast ports so far during the season, have amounted to 1,032,326 bushels, and of flour the equivalent of 72,012 bushels or a total of 1,104,338. The estimated surplus last August was 3,000,000 bushels, but it will be at once perceived that that estimate was too large, though it is a matter next to impossible to tell the amount which is yet held back. There are nearly 15,000 or 16,000 bushels now stored in Flanders' warehouse, besides other lots here, awaiting shipment.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The demand is not very active, but under favorable advices from San Francisco and Liverpool, together with some prospects of a falling off in the estimates of California's surplus for 1873, prices are gradually working up to a better figure. The receipts during the week have been considerable, mostly of lots purchased for shipment to San Francisco for re-shipment thence to Europe. The quotations furnished us to-day are $1 55@1 60 ₩ cental.

FLOUR—Prices seem to be rather firmer, though unchanged. The supply is quite full here at present, but a reduction by shipments expected to be made soon will bring it down to average. Quotations remain at $5 per bbl for extra standard brands, $4 50 for best country brands, and $3 75@4 for superfine.

OATS—The weakened condition of the market of San Francisco still has its effect on ours, and prices here are not very firm at 55@60 cents per bushel including sacks. The receipts during the week so far have fallen short of those of last week, and we are informed that the surplus over the requisite quantity for seed, yet in the hands of producers, is getting low.

BARLEY—The market is quiet, and though small lots are occasionally offered, yet hardly sufficient is changing hands to furnish reliable quotations. Dealers offer $1 40@1 50 per cwt.

FEED—The feeling in the market by which prices were carried up to a rather fancy figure has about subsided, and we again find quotations down to $20 per ton for bran and $30 for chops, middlings, etc. The supply is much larger than one week ago.

HAY—We quote timothy, baled at $15@17 50 per ton, loose $15. The demand is dull.

POTATOES—The market is not very abundantly supplied to day, and for best varieties there is rather a better demand, and for such we learn 35@40c ₩ bushel are offered, though it is hardly probable that large lots would bring so much. We hear of inferior lots selling at ½c ₩ lb.

APPLES—But few in the market; prices depend entirely on the quality and range from ¾@3½c ₩ lb.

DRIED FRUIT—Apples in sacks quoted at 5@5½c ₩ lb, in new kegs, 7@7½c; Plums, pitless, 15@18c; with pits, no offers.

ONIONS—Of old the market is barren, and for good lots a round figure could be obtained

BACON—With the large receipts of the past few days added to an already well supplied market, dealers are again becoming cautious buyers, and prices seem inclined to droop. We quote country cured Sides 11@11½c ₩ lb; Hams, 14@15c; and Shoulders, 8@9c. For the latter there is an improvement in the demand at current rates.

LARD—Is weaker than a few days ago, and fair quotations now are, 11c in kegs, and 12@12½c in tins.

BUTTER—A firm which deals pretty extensively in this commodity, in their circular, dated yesterday, says: "The market has been flooded with Fresh Butter in all conceivable shapes, colors and qualities, being packed or thrown into second hand Sugar kegs, Boot and Shoe cases, Tea chests, Coal Oil cases, &c., selling at 15@20c, according to quality and condition." We also hear of good, in rolls, changing hands at 15c ₩ lb, and 1000 lbs fair at 17c. Grocers, under special contracts, pay more for fresh dairy for table use, but ordinary cannot be quoted above 15c.

EGGS—The supply is ample and owing to the low rates in San Francisco, dealers here will not pay over 15c per dozen.

CHICKENS—The supply is quite fair and prices steady. For grown hens $4@4 50 per dozen are the ruling figures.

HIDES—There seems to be some depreciation in rates since our last report and offers are now made at 7 cents per pound for salted and 14@15c for dry.

WOOL—Some small lots have been received and the apparently settled price for clean, at present is 20 cents per lb. Eastern advices still contain but little tending to throw light on the future of the market. We hear of a buyer at Eugene City who has engaged 10,000 pounds at 20 cents and makes the same offer for more.

Puget Sound Shipping.

Arrived—At Port Gamble, 12, bark Buena Vista, from San Francisco; ship James Cheston, from San Francisco. At Port Madison, May 11, barkentine W. H. Gawley, from San Francisco. At Seattle, schooner Lovet Peacock, 15 days from San Francisco. At Seabeck, May 7, ship Liguria, from Callao.

Sailed—From Port Gamble, May 8, bark J. W. Jones, from Iquique; bark Atlantic, from Seabeck; May 8, bark Gen. Cobb, for San Francisco. From Port Madison, May 9, ship Coquimbo, for San Francisco.

Shipping Intelligence.

The British ship Grasmere, which sailed from this port for Queenstown last November, was spoken March 19th to lat 32 02 N., long 31 25 W.

The sailing of the Ajax for San Francisco has been postponed until 6 A. M. to-morrow.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16—Arrived—Amethyst, Bellingham Bay; Prince Alfred, Victoria.

Sailed—D. S. Williams, Port Townsend.

Markets

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16—Quiet at $5 50@6 for jobbing lots of extra.

Wheat—1,500 sks choice reported sold for distilling at $2; range $1 85@2; sales 30,000 sks shipping, free on board, $1 92½. Shippers offer only $1 90. There is scarcely any demand from local millers. The Golden Gate Mill shuts down after this week.

Barley—1,600 sks coast brewing $1 30; 600 sks bright coast $1 27½; range for all kinds $1 22½ to 1 35.

Oats—Small jobbing sales at $2 10@2 25.

Hay—Twelve tons of common tame oats 24 40, 40 tons new volunteer barley $12 50; 30 tons choice wild oat $22, extremes 14@22 ₩ ton.

To Contractors.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE UNDERsigned, appointed Superintendent by the County Court of Clackamas county, Oregon, will let a contract for the construction of a BRIDGE ACROSS THE CLACKAMAS RIVER, on the road leading from Oregon City to Portland. Such contract will be let to the lowest responsible bidder, at public outcry, at the Court House door, on MONDAY, 2d DAY OF JUNE, A. D. 1873, at the hour of 1 o'clock, P. M., subject to the right of the County Court of said county to reject such bid, if the same should exceed the sum such Court is willing to appropriate toward the construction thereof.

Such Bridge will be 210 feet long, if built according to Smith Patent Truss, with aprons; or two spans of 140 feet each, with aprons, if built according to the plans of the old Cason bridge, at the same point. Bids will be received according to each plan.

Particular plans and specifications for each proposed style may be seen upon application to me after this date, and the successful bidder may expect to give bonds for the due execution of his contract.

To Sufferers:

THE ABOVE ESTABLISHMENT HAS BEEN opened for the treatment of all Chronic and Private Diseases, in males as well as females, where all who are suffering from any of those dreadful ailments can find relief.

Young men having weakened and injured their constitutions by secret habits, need have no fear in calling and consulting me, as all communications are strictly confidential, and sure of a permanent cure where treatment is followed.

Special attention given to the treatment of stricture, and to all who are suffering from such, I can warrant a cure.

Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Piles, Dropsy, Cancers, and all other ailments successfully treated.

To Ladies who are dragging out a life of misery, on account of debility, sterility, menstruation, and many other diseases peculiar to the sex, can find relief by calling.

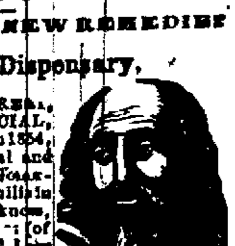
The celebrated FEMALE REGULATOR PILLS sent free by mail to any address on receipt of $5 00 per box. Certain and safe in all cases.

Office consultation free of charge. All communications strictly confidential. Office hours, 11 A. M. to 4 P. M., and 7 to 9 P. M. DR. C. G. GLASS.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco, established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from diseases absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies, see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the faces, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco [illegible].

[illegible]

Or those who contemplate marrying, who are suffering under any of the [illegible], should not forget the [illegible] responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is [illegible], and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and [illegible] cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicine promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the [illegible], with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars in coin, in a registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of Medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the [illegible] and pretenders, who, with bogus [illegible] certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are [illegible] and [illegible] too lazy to work at their trade. Some are tinsmiths, shoe makers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he professes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearny street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

☞ Correspondent will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.
